Montrose Shopping Park Association K-rails, Parking and Cleaning

By Justin HAGER

The Montrose Shopping Park Association meeting last week uneventful as the organization geared up for its annual car show. Much of the meeting was dedicated to discussing ongoing concerns over parking, illegal dumping and cleanliness.

With the removal of parklet K-rails coming on October 11 and the return of street parking, MSPA President and Parking Task Force Chair, Andre Ordubegian, advocated for the need to get updated parking meters and/or parking boxes that allow for online, card, or other digital payment so that quarters are no longer needed. He also expressed a desire for larger parking signs directing customers to the free parking behind Honolulu Avenue and shared concerns regarding how the MSP and Glendale city officials would manage parking from the influx of 200-300 Glendale Community College students at the new satellite

In addition to parking concerns, the MSPA faces ongoing challenges with illegal dumping and several members of the MSPA reported that the myGlendale app was failing to garner a response from city officials. However, city officials did provide updates to the problem of unintentional dumping at Lot #7, where the owners/ operators of a charity donation bin have failed to collect donated items or return calls from city officials. Tamar Sadd of the Glendale Economic Development office said that information regarding the removal of Adventist Health of Glendale medical team travels to where they are needed most. From Haiti to Louisiana, these doctors and nurses are always ready to help.

Helping Haiti

"Once we heard about the earthquake [in Haiti] on Aug. 14, we had heard it was a 7.2," said Dr. Evelyn Wong, Adventist Health Glendale.

She and her team Adventist had responded to the 2010 earthquake in the same region, a magnitude 7.0.

"All our minds were racing, wondering what type of disaster is this?" Wong asked.

When most of us hear about disasters like earthquakes and hurricanes, the thought is 'what can we send to the region to help?' But for a team of doctors and nurses at Adventist Health Glendale, the thought is 'time to pack a bag and get ready to go.'

On Aug. 14, a magnitude 7.2 earthquake struck Haiti, according to the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS).

Reportedly 2,200 people lost their lives, and an estimated 12,000 were injured.

"We heard reports that people were still missing," Wong added.

Haiti had not yet recovered from the 2010 earthquake, or hurricane Matthew in 2016, and in July, Haiti's President Jovenel Moïse was assassinated. All these hardships have created more and more chaos in the region.

Although Haiti needed help and needed it quickly, coordinating a medical team to travel to this country was not easy.

"We were going to land in Port-au-Prince and rent a bus to go to ...Jeremie. Then we got word it was too dangerous and the safest way to go was to fly," she said. There had been stories of doctors being kidnapped and held for ransom when traveling the roads. But flights were difficult to find.

"We reached out to our usual air pilots," Wong said.

But no one was available. The team even looked at getting a boat from Florida but that too was not possible. So with every flight booked, no boats and travel by bus too dangerous for the team, it looked pretty hopeless. Then Mission Aviation Fellowship contacted Wong and she was able to coordinate nine members of the team and said they had a flight.

Patriot Day Motorcade

"We will never forget." Twenty years have passed since the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. Four commercial airliners were hijacked mid-flight by Al-Qaeda terrorists who intentionally flew two planes into the twin towers of the World Trade Center causing mass casualties. The third plane struck the Pentagon, killing 125 people, while the fourth plane crashed into a field in Pennsylvania after passengers attempted to regain control, diverting the aircraft from the hijackers' intended location believed to be the White House or U.S. Capitol.

Even though a generation has passed, the lives lost and the ensuing destruction are still remembered by the American people and throughout the world, since citizens from over 90 countries were killed in the attacks. Patriot Day on September 11 is a National Day of Service and Remembrance.

Volunteer Spirit

Robin is gone for the week so the task of writing this column falls to me. For most who know me I will never turn down an opportunity to talk about the volunteer spirit of our community. There is no doubt that our time of isolation has affected our community as well as the nation. I have never met so many angry people who are not only certain they are absolutely right in everything they believe but curse, spit or assault others who dare to think differently. And although this is what I have seen and what we have all seen in the general media, I have found true hope in the volunteers of this community who are coming out in force to help others. Throughout the pandemic we have been a drop off spot for the Bailey Center food bank. There have been so many of you who have dropped off food here at the office, and at the center. As the center's need increased from serving about 200 to serving over 1,000, you all stepped up with more food. The Church of Latter-day Saints brought food and volunteers, CVHS Robotics 589 held regular food drives and when they needed a handcart to get the pallets of food from the truck to the kitchen Chris Waldheim and J's Maintenance provided it for them. People have contacted me with clothes, food, refrigerators and freezers—all items the center needed. Kids from CVHS Instrumental Music and Prom Plus Club with the help of the American Legion Post 288/VFW Post 1614 gathered over 300 toys for the Glendale police toy drive. It has amazed me how many generous and thoughtful people have stepped up to help others, without asking about political beliefs they just helped. I am the mentor for CVHS Prom Plus Club. I have to be honest this year and a half has tested my optimism and my faith but these young PPC members have inspired and renewed my soul. These kids struggled with isolation, like most kids, but they constantly community. They dealt with fears of the virus infectwith the new learning curve of virtual classrooms, and are now getting used to in-person classes again. They have their concerns about what the last year and a half meant to their school grade point average, what it will mean for college applications and just in general getting used to being social again. They are still worried as the Delta variant drives higher COVID numbers, take comfort they are vaccinated and worry about those that are not. With all of these concerns they still ask every day about volunteer opportunities. They take pride in helping others and feel the responsibility of citizenship to support their community. So despite what I may face as a reporter in the field, despite what I hear in the national media of discourse and despair these kids inspire me. They teach me how to be humble, how to be more accepting and most of all how to hopeful. So when you see a volunteer at the Home Town Country Fair, or any of the bingo events take time to thank them, let them know you appreciate what they do and then sit back and watch them work-I guarantee you will be inspired as well.

Weather in the Foothills

"Sunshine, blue skies, please go away... My eyes search the skies, desperately for rain...Let it rain, let it rain."

~ "I Wish it Would Rain" song by The Temptations

Is Autumn in the air? We're still a couple of weeks away from the official date, but there are a few signs, if you look closely. The most obvious is perhaps the fewer minutes of daylight; it's dark by 8 p.m. We know it doesn't just happen overnight but is part of an ongoing process. But, nevertheless somehow it seems to happen abruptly. Suddenly- at a defining moment- you notice and may question "Is it getting dark earlier?" Doesn't it seem in the midst of the summer, the lighter evenings will last forever. As temperatures continue to climb well beyond the 100-degree mark, we are more than ready for a break...if only we could keep the warm summer nights.

Summer will end and we begin to wonder what autumn and winter may bring. Mostly in recent years the real question has been—will it rain and how much? It's a serious question and the answer can't be mere speculation. Our best information comes from the NOAA/NWS Climate Prediction Center. On September 6 they released their much-anticipated forecast. An official "La Niña watch" was declared for (at least) the September-November time frame, and the La Niña effect is likely to persist through the winter. So, what does this mean for our weather?

La Niña can reduce the chance for a normal rain amount across much of the Southwest including California. This is not good news for a region that is plagued by an ongoing drought, excessive heat and ongoing wildfires. A typical La Niña winter in the U.S. brings cold and snow to the Northwest and unusually dry conditions to most of the southern part of the country, according to the prediction center. No area is left untouched by climate conditions such as La Niña. But as is often the case, with climate/weather, it's a wait and see.

The catalyst for a La Niña condition is simply surface ocean water temperature. Specifically, with La Niña, the cooling of surface ocean water along the coast of Peru. Depending on water temperature of the western vs. the eastern equatorial Pacific Ocean, the atmosphere and meteorological drivers like the Jet Stream can be altered and affect the rice harvest in Indonesia, snow depths in Colorado and drought in Southern California. During a good El Niño year, the Jet Stream drops south bringing us rain.

The forecast includes more hot weather. Good news, though... the nights are getting cooler- 60 degrees! Autumn is coming.

CVWD Receives Grant

Crescenta Valley Water District is pleased to announce that the District has received a grant from the Bureau of Reclamation. The Bureau selected 82 applicants across the 16 western states for WaterSMART small-scale efficiency projects to help local communities make water efficiency improvements. The District applied for a grant to cover the cost of large meter replacement. The District will expand its advanced metering infrastructure program by replacing nineteen 3-inch meters and two 4-inch meters for apartment and condominium complexes and park irrigation.

The project will result in improved water reliability, better water data and increased public awareness of water use. The grant will fund $75,000.00 of the $200,00.00 project. The project supports several long-term planning goals including the District's 2015 and 2021 Urban Water Management Plan.

A Century of Cars in Montrose Car Show

By Lori BODNAR

Despite scorching heat hundreds visited the 19th Annual Montrose Car Show. With 300 vehicles on display, there was a century of autos from all over the world ranging from Europe, North America, Oceania and Asia.

Forty volunteers including Bob Beck, announcer for Irwindale Speedway helped with the event.

Tom King ran the registration booth. "The Montrose Car Show brings the community together and provides foot traffic for local businesses and farmer's market," King said.

Vasken Hagopian has owned a 1955 Chevy Los Angeles Police Dept. car for 10 years.

"When I first saw the car, it was dusty, dirty and barely running—I remodeled it. Studios rent this car for movies and actors like Matt Damon and George Clooney have used it," Hagopian said.

Robert Best displayed his 1974 Corvette Coupe for the first time; he has owned the car since he was 19.

Kevin Hoard made modifications to his 1963 Vespa such as flags and lights to make it appear as a 1960s Italian mod scooter.

"I enjoy car shows because it is fun and supports the community," Hoard said

Ken Saffer has a roadster he started building in 1981 and finished in 1986 at Speedway Engineering, where he worked for the late-owner Frank Deiny. The car has a 1948 flathead hot rod motor.

A sight to see were two dogs driving a car. Troy G. equipped a toy car with a remote control so his dogs could cruise around. In addition to being at the Montrose Car Show, these therapy dogs also "drive" into hospital rooms to the delight of the patients.

The winners of the Montrose Car Show were Ray Petri, Renne Holquin, Dale Hudelson, Sandy Norris, Blake Wilcox, Larry Helscher, Gus Ramos, Dan Olson, David Coulter, Bob Alcott, George Sayeg, Jim Ortega, Ernest Ortega, Darrell McGettee, Dan and Debbie Glick, Richard Fromel, Richard White, Steve Dalton, Manuel Gomez, Brent Unger, Jim Ayach, Bob Reily, Michael Alfeiri, Chris McDiffett, Peter Nguyen, Lynn Park, Kris Wilcox, and Simon Dulvandzhyan. The winning cars included a Ford Model A and Model T.

The roaring motors of the Cacklefest, featuring two cars and two boats with nitro and alcohol for fuel revving their engines was a real crowd pleaser.

Dwaine Miles said, "I have been to the Montrose Car show at least 7 years. My favorite part is photographing the cars. One car that caught my eye was the WWII 1943 Ford GPW, owned by John Bodnar," said Miles.

The car show was for all ages including Eric Truong, sixth grader, and fifth grader Abigail Eisenstein.

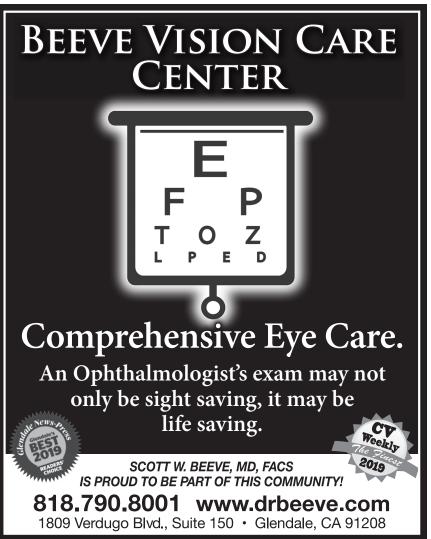

"I liked the varieties of cars and how designs changed. I enjoyed the Cacklefest. My favorites were the trucks and 1947 Willy's CJ2A," Truong said.

Obituary

Baker Joseph Shelton

Dec. 22, 1922 - Aug. 30, 2021

On Monday, Aug. 30, Baker Joseph Shelton passed away in La Crescenta, California. "Joe" was a WWII veteran who served in the Pacific theater as a Corpsman in the US Navy.

Joe, or Baker as he was known to his family back east, was born in Buffalo Lithia Springs, Virginia on Dec. 22,1922, the fifth of six children, born to Henry and Zelma (Clement) Shelton. The family soon moved to, and Joe grew up in, High Point, North Carolina. He had many adventures during his 98 years of life. At 14 he hitchhiked from North Carolina to Florida and met "a lot of nice people." He began his retail "career" selling magazines on the main street in High Point. When he was 20, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy, and was assigned to the Hospital Corps in the Solomon Islands, South Pacific. He saw some terrible injuries, and from his experience there grew to detest war and violence for the rest of

After WWII he stayed in Northern California where he met the love of his life, Martha "Dollie" Davis. They were married in 1947. He began a career with JC Penney in 1953 and retired from Penney's in 1987. In 1958 the family with two young sons moved to Southern California where the third son was born. In 1969 the family moved to Tempe, Arizona when Joe was transferred by JCP. Joe and Dollie loved to travel, and were able to go to Brazil, Israel, Germany, Switzerland and Alaska. They also purchased a small home in Pinetop AZ where they spent many a happy summer at 7,000 feet, away from the heat of the Valley. After Dollie passed away in 2013, he remained in his home for almost 3 more years before moving to Friendship Village in Tempe. He thrived there, wrote several skits and plays, played wicked poker, and traveled to nearby casinos to battle the 'one armed bandits' (slot machines).

Joe was Papa Joe to his grandkids and OG [Original Grandpa] to his great grandchildren. He was a museum curator, pretty good golfer, sly poker player, poet and storyteller. He loved spending time with his family. In early 2020 he diagnosed with congestive heart failure and required hospitalization and large amounts of oxygen over several days. The doctors told the family he was unlikely to survive, but he did, and was playing his harmonica shortly after his oxygen mask was taken off.

He was in an Arizona nursing home during most of the COVID lockdown, and tested positive for COVID in late summer, recovered and when it was possible, he moved to La Crescenta, California to Twelve Oaks Assisted Living facility. He also thrived in Montrose and wrote two plays, which he performed with his new Twelve Oaks friends, wrote more poetry and worked on his art.

Until his last few days, Joe was continuing his creative ventures, loved talking about current events with his family, and always had his harmonica close by just in case there was a need for another song.

He was the patriarch of his loving family. Prior to his death he shared "words of wisdom" with each individual family member. He shared a lifetime of observation, of life experiences and of love. He will be missed but as a family we are so grateful to have had him in our lives for as long as we did. He is survived by his three sons and their wives, Steven and Sarah, Kent and Nancy, and Mark and Mary. He leaves behind seven grandchildren, and five greatarandchildren (with another on the way). Donna-Jean Spaziano-Shields

July 7, 1960 - Aug. 22, 2021

Donna-Jean Spaziano-Shields, 61, of Tacoma, Washington passed away on Sunday, Aug. 22 following a brave battle with ALS, Lou Gehrig's disease. Donna was born in Providence, Rhode Island to Robert and Eleanor Spaziano on July 7, 1960. They moved to La Crescenta when Donna was 3 years old. She attended Monte Vista Elementary School and Rosemont Middle School and graduated from Crescenta Valley High School in 1978. She was on the swim team and played in the band. Upon graduation she went to dental college and became a dental assistant.

She moved to Seattle where she worked as a dental assistant and office manager. She was a vibrant and determined personality, a devoted single mother raising her son alone. She was kind and generous. For over 10 years she sponsored Japanese exchange students and housed them while they learned English. She bought several homes, the Cadillac she always wanted and vacationed each year, never missing a one. She lived life on her own terms.

Donna was predeceased by her father Robert Anthony, who also suffered from ALS, as well as Robert's sister Annette Spaziano-Johnson. She is survived by her mother Eleanor and two sisters, Denise (Camner) and Lori (Estrada); her son Jared; two nieces and three nephews.

A celebration of her life will be on Sept. 18 at noon at St. James the Less Church in La Crescenta.

Crescenta Valley Water District (CVWD) is considering a 3-year (multi-year) water and wastewater rate increase

With much of CVWD's infrastructure built in the 1950s, a considerable portion of it is approaching or has exceeded its life expectancy. The CVWD Board is committed to a long-term plan to address the problem of deferred work on pipelines, wells, reservoirs, and other infrastructure in order to continue providing safe and reliable water to our customers.

There will be a Public Hearing on Tuesday, September 21, 2021, at 6:00 p.m.

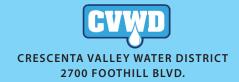

This meeting will be by Teleconference Only

Any CVWD customer or property owner within the CVWD water or wastewater service area may file a written protest of the proposed rate changes by sending a letter or dropping off a letter to: CVWD's main office, 2700 Foothill Boulevard, La Crescenta, CA 91214. Please make sure to sign your protest letter.

For your convenience, there is a protest form available at www.cvwd.com Please read all of the information on how to submit your form.

Patriots Day from Cover

To remember and honor the emergency responders who risked their lives to help those in need and in memory of everyone who lost their lives on 9/11, the Crescenta Valley Chamber of Commerce hosts a Patriot Day Remembrance Motorcade. This year, the event will be on Friday, September 10th, so local schools can participate.

"The motorcade starts at 8:42 a.m. from Ralph's parking lot. It passes by five fire stations, three convalescent homes, two grocery stores, a hospital and thirteen schools within La Crescenta, Montrose and La Cañada," said Dwight Sityar, one of the organizers of the event.

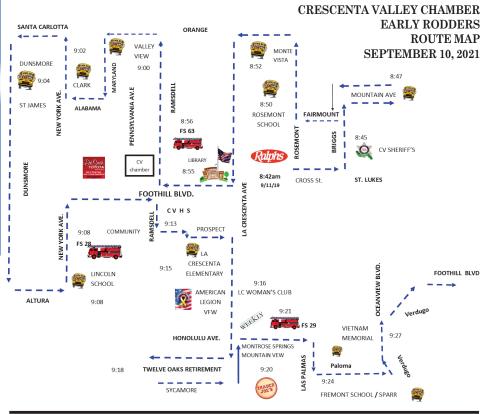

Fifty different types of cars will participate, ranging from classic, exotics, hot rods and one of a kind makes, like a tri-wheel Lamborghini, fire engines, Los Angeles County Sheriffs/Crescenta Valley Station and Glendale police patrol units, Montrose Search and Rescue vehicles and California Highway Patrol motorcycle units to help with traffic control. The oldest car in the motorcade is a 1926 Ford Hot Rod.

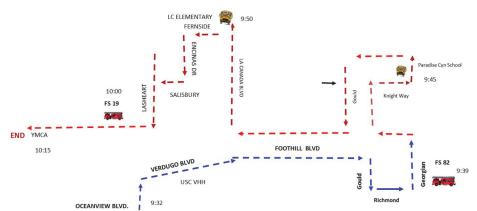

Dwight noted, "This motorcade is a reminder for those who still recollect that fateful day of September 11 when the U.S. was attacked," Sityar said. "In Crescenta Valley we have coined the words 'Remember- Honor-Respect'. We hope we have the community rally behind the Patriot Day Remembrance Motorcade as we travel the planned route."

"The importance of the motorcade is remembering 9/11. It doesn't matter which political side you are, we can all remember the tragedy that occurred and come together in support of our country. The motorcade is an emotional experience for the drivers and audience," said Steve Pierce, an organizer.

The motorcade focuses on honoring emergency responders as it drives past the fire stations, law enforcement stations and the hospital. Traditionally the event also includes a somber evening program that remembers the souls that were lost however due to the pandemic that ceremony has been

HAITI from Cover

Wong, who was staying in the states to coordinate the trip for her team, flew to Austin, Texas with medical supplies and met the team she had recruited and trained.

The team was able to get on the flight and landed in Port-au-Prince, the capital of Haiti, but then found that getting to where their help was so keenly needed was going to be difficult. Through trial and tribulation, the team finally made it to Jeremie.

When the team arrived at their destination, they treated at least 100 patients a day, mired in a sea of pain, suffering and hopelessness.

"The [people] had faced crisis upon crisis," Wong said.

It was not just patients that were happy to see the Adventist team, but the overwhelmed Haitian doctors.

"They were so relieved and so moved that Adventist Health would send all this medication and [help]," she said.

She spoke of the lawlessness her team had witnessed, the chaos and how the people were so desperate for support.

"Security was a huge issue and continues to be a problem," Wong said.

She shared one story of a man who had a spinal fracture. He was left behind by a transport and although the Adventist team had a spinal surgeon, logistics prevented them from helping the man. The team then went back to Port-au-Prince where Dr. Scott Nelson from Loma Linda University created, and is chief of surgery at, a state-of-the-art facility, Hôspital Adventiste. The surgeon that was part of Wong's team was helping at Nelson's hospital and his first patient was the man with a fractured spine who had been left behind. He had found transport and the surgeon was able to operate. The next day, the man showed signs of

The flight becoming available and the patient finding his way to the hospital for surgery are just two in a series of many fortunate instances Wong and her team have witnessed over the years.

"We have seen a bunch of miracles," Wong said.

In 2010, Wong, who admits she was a bit naive to the danger around her, was in a small village in Haiti. One evening a father and his injured son came to their makeshift medical facility. They had survived the earthquake but as the father was clearing concrete with an axe, his seven-year-old son walked behind him and the axe struck the child in the head. The father carried the child down the mountains, by the time they arrived the boy was unable to walk or talk. It looked like there was no hope. Unfortunately, the facility that Wong was in was not equipped for the severity of the boy's injuries

There was a US Marine base that was close to Wong's medical facility. She had already been told they could not air evacuate anyone so there was little hope to help the boy. They were in a remote jungle area but the US Marines said there was a soccer field where a helicopter could land a mile away.

"I thought, 'what I need is a truck," she said.

And a white Jeep Cherokee with a red cross painted on it came down the road.

"It had nurses from America and they asked us how they could help," she said.

She told the nurses about the boy.
"One of the nurses was a pediatric ICU nurse who said 'this is what I do,"

They were able to get a helicopter to transport the child, his father and the pediatric nurse who went with them for support.

The nurse called me from Florida and said the boy had surgery and was walking and moving his limbs, Wong said.

Wong believes God is with them as they travel throughout the world to help, and He reveals himself through their work.

After their return from Haiti, the Adventist Health Glendale team once again prepared for travel and have now journeyed to Louisiana to help in the aftermath of Hurricane Ida. They continue to work where they can, for all who need them, guided by their faith.

"Miracles happen to those who believe," Wong said.

Who Burned Down The La Cañada Schoolhouse?

-Part 1

La Cañada Valley – March 16, 1893. Theodor Pickens, the man for whom Pickens Canyon is named, was playing the card game of whist with some friends. Pickens, now in his 40s, had given up his life as a rough homesteader years before, and become a successful farmer in La Cañada. He had married a couple 19-year-old transient O.H. Clements of years before for the first time, and his new wife, a widow, had bought them a fine house and acreage higher in the La Cañada valley above the schoolhouse.

to bark furiously. Pickens could tell by the tone of their cries that they were barking at someone walking by the house on the road to the schoolhouse. The dogs quieted, but began barking the same way 15 minutes later. In ranch. just a few minutes, the card players heard the fire bell ringing, and flames.

The wooden schoolhouse burned to the ground, and investigators felt it was arson. The insurance company offered $500 for the conviction of the arsonist, and the school district another $100.

A few days later, in downtown LA, was flat broke. He happened to pick up a newspaper, and read about the fire and the $600 reward. In Clements' mind, he fashioned himself a detective. He felt he could solve the About 8 p.m., Pickens' dogs began case and pocket the reward. Young Clements headed up the Verdugo Canyon intending to work as a ranch hand while investigating the crime. He made up an alias, Tony Port, then found work on Dr. Lanterman's

> Clements, now called Tony, began to make friends with the many stepped outside to witness the nearby teenagers in the valley. He made the hidden cash. It was a cool spring evening in La Cañada schoolhouse engulfed in particular friends with 15-year-old Lemuel Veilex, the son of a successful La Cañada rancher. Lem was enamored with the dime novels of the era, that glamorized Indian fighters and bank robbers. Lem wanted to be a tough outlaw like the characters in the books he devoured.

> Tony seized on this and began filling Lem's head with made-up stories of his own life of crime. Tony told Lem that he was part of a gang called "The Dirty Dozen." He poured tales of his daring robberies into young Lem's head, and Lem believed every word. Lem desperately want to be as bad as his new hero Tony, and Tony knew it. Tony put out some bait in the form of a daring robbery his gang had committed. He told Lem the robbery had netted $1,800, which the gang, now on the run from the law had buried. But Tony told Lem he had made a map of the location of

He told Lem that they could go and dig up the money and split it between the two of them, but only if Lem could prove himself "the right sort," brave and bad enough. Lem needed to prove himself worthy of the stolen loot. Lem, wanting to impress Tony, told him that it was he who had burned down the schoolhouse. He told Tony that he was sick of school, that he had stolen coal oil from the school during recess, then had returned that night, pouring the oil over the back steps and lighting it off. He even showed Tony the schoolhouse key he had stolen.

Tony had baited his quarry, and was now about to set the hook. He went to Dr. Lanterman with the news that that young Lemuel Veilex had confessed to the arson of the schoolhouse, and that he could get him to confess again in front of witnesses. A plan was cooked up where two other local ranchers would hide close enough to the boys to hear the confession. Dan Green and Jesse Knight crouched behind a hedge while Tony engaged Lem in conversation on the other side. Tony got Lem to boast again of his arson of the schoolhouse. The sheriff was notified of the confession in front of witnesses, and Lemuel Veilex was arrested.

Next week, the trial.

VIEWS FROM CRESCENTA VALLEY TOWN COUNCIL » HARRY LEON

Summer is Officially Over!

I am so glad that in-person school sessions are back this year. Thank you GUSD (board members, superintendent, faculty, and staff) for taking all precautionary measures to make our students safe.

This Saturday, we all be commemorating the anniversary of 9/11. That day was the worst day we have ever seen, but it brought out the best in all of us. Please take the time to remember those who died, those who survived, and those who carried on. "We will never forget."

the Dept. of Public Works, Los Angeles County (DPW), will present to the council and the community the details on the proposed bulb outs/ sidewalk and street improvement project. The DPW will be asking for a final decision from the CVTC.

Los Angeles County welcomed the "Super Scoopers" firefighting aircraft from Quebec to tackle wildfires for the 28th consecutive year. With a capacity of up to 1,600 gallons of water they add to the air capabilities of LACoFD.

At the next CVTC general meeting, LA County is experiencing high temperatures, dry terrain and gusty winds, so we're glad to have these aircraft here to support our talented firefighters. We're grateful for our aerial fleet but strong equipment and talented fire personnel cannot keep our communities safe by themselves. We need residents to do their part to be proactive and prepared. Download the Ready! Set! Go! Guide at fire. lacounty.gov/rsg to prepare your family and home.

Fire season traditionally has begun in October but in California the season is almost year round. With continued dry conditions and expected Santa Ana winds it is important that families have a plan in place. In case of an evacuation make sure you have snacks, water, medication, your photo ID, important documents, and your cell phone and charger ready. Also, make sure to clear brush around your house now to help keep fires at bay. Stay up to date during an emergency on social media with the CVTC website, the L.A. County Fire Department, Los Angeles County Sheriffs Depart./ Crescenta Valley Station and the Red Cross Los Angeles. Visit LACoFD's website for Ready! Set! Go! Wildfire Action Plan to ensure you're prepared. Reminder: One of the important issues going on in our community is Illegal dumping. It has been a big problem in our community. In the unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County, including La Crescenta, there is a trash responsibility ordinance that requires residents to dispose of their trash on a weekly basis. Whether a person is a renter or homeowner, individuals are responsible for any trash that is in front of their home, even if that trash is not something they put there. Bulky items left on the street have become a danger not just due to their size and unsanitary conditions, but also because many items are on sidewalks, and are a safety concern for people walking in the neighborhoods.

And lastly, do not forget our monthly Town Council meetings. For those who have an interest in attending and participating in our virtual meetings and want to submit comments and/or questions, we encourage you to please visit our website at the cvcouncil.com it is important to set partisan politics time he got caught! aside and look critically at Governor Gavin Newsom's performance and personal qualifications. In my opinion it's clear; he is not fit to continue as California's governor.

Under Newsom, California has among the highest property tax, gas prices, sales tax, income tax, poverty rate, housing cost and the lowest per-student spending. He considered ending the ill-fated bullet train, but instead took our gas tax money to fund it. He has banned gas cars after 2035. Millions of new electric vehicles will be dependent on already insufficient electricity.

In violation of his own health orders, Newsom and 22 others dined at the exclusive French Laundry restaurant...unmasked. The rest of us were home in lock down. This demonstrates a lack of integrity and disdain for common Californians. Was this his only violation of State As the recall election draws near, mandates? More likely it was the only

> On Newson's watch COVID unemployment fraud exploded to more than $30 billion. Unemployment checks went to prison inmates, as the State neglected to check the inmate list against unemployment applicants. Families were losing their homes as their checks were on hold.

Our wonderful community is systematically being dismantled via the State "Housing Element" (requires La Crescenta/Montrose to accept 1200 additional units.) Increased density will destroy or eliminate single family neighborhoods. What about water, power, schools, parks, transportation and medical care?

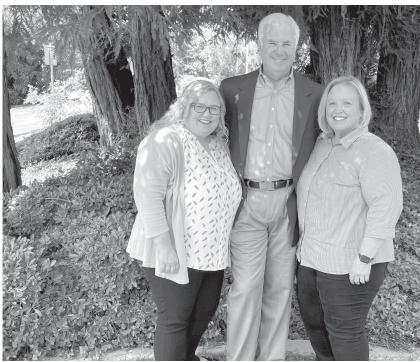

Under Newsom, our criminal justice system has been gutted by AB109, Propositions 47 and 59. The governor vows to open the prison releasing approximately doors.

Sure enough, their front/ impostor becomes the toast of Hollywood, commanding millions of dollars in asking price for future scripts.

Written by Marilyn Anderson and directed by Roger K. Weiss, it runs Sept. 16 through Oct. 17 at the Theatre 40 in the Reuben Cordova Theatre in Beverly Hills. For tickets, call (310) 364-0535 or visit www.theatre40. org.

"Shaadi" Blue13 Dance Company presents an outdoor, site-specific, audience immersive contemporary and Bollywood dance spectacular. The wedding party invites the audience to share in their happiness and drama as they dance the night away at one of Southern California's most beautiful wedding venues: Heritage Square Museum in the Montecito Heights neighborhood of Los Angeles. Blue13's highly energetic and theatrical style draws from ballet, jazz, tap, modern, hip-hop, Bhangra, Kathak and Bollywood to tell unforgettable stories.

Written and directed by Achinta S. McDaniel, it runs Sept. 17 through Sept. 18 at the Heritage Square Museum in Los Angeles. For tickets, visit www.blue13dance.com.

"Vanya and Sonia and Masha and Spike"
Please note: Everyone (adults and children over 12) who enters the Westchester Playhouse building must wear a face mask and needs to be prepared to show proof of vaccination.

Set in rural Bucks County, Pennsylvania, Vanya and his adopted sister Sonia live a quiet life in the farmhouse where they grew up and cared for their elderly parents while mourning their lost dreams and missed opportunities. When their often-wrong, fortune-telling maid warns of impending dangers and their movie star sister, Masha, arrives unexpectedly with her young, sexy, boy toy Spike, the family is launched into a rollicking weekend of one-upmanship, exposed nerves, and a lot of broken mugs. With wit and absurdity, the toils and troubles of celebrity, social networking and age combine into a laugh-out-loud comedy that will tickle your funny bone and stimulate your mind.

Written by Christopher Durang and directed by Susan Stangl, it runs Sept. 17 through Oct. 10 at the Westchester Playhouse in Westchester. For tickets, call (310) 645-5156 or visit www. kentwoodplayers.org.

THEN & NOW |

Then: Shown here is the Mt. Lukens fire lookout tower in about 1923. The job of the spotter in the tower was to look for fires further back in the San Gabriel Mountains, and relay the info to firefighters coming from CV. The tower was supplied by mule via a trail coming up from Briggs Terrace.

Mt. Lukens – Then and Now Courtesy of the Historical Society of CV

Now: Communication of the locations of fires was the reason for the Mt. Lukens fire watchtower, and today, communication is still the name of the game at the peak of Mt. Lukens. Shown here are some of the dozens of microwave relay towers that forest the peak now. Mt. Lukens is also a popular destination for thousands of hikers and mountain bikers.

Halloween is Coming

Photos by Charly SHELTON

Halloween is right around the corner and that means it's time for the local theme parks to get into the "spirit" of the season. Disneyland, as seen here, is all decked out for the occasion with a giant Mickey Mouse pumpkin on Main Street USA, festive Halloween costumes for your Disney character friends and spooky decor all over the park.

At The Haunted Mansion, Jack Skellington has moved in with some friends from Halloweentown Christmas their way, and we're grateful to see it in the return of Haunted Mansion Holiday, now celebrating it's 20th anniversary

CVWeekly will be visiting many of the local theme parks to take a look at some of these Halloween events and let you know which ones are treats, and which ones are tricks. We begin next week with a look at Universal Studios' Halloween Horror Nights event, which opens today. Check back with CVWeekly in next week's issue for coverage.

WEEKLY HOROSCOPES

Provided by horoscope.com September 6, 2021 - September 9, 2021

ARIES March 21 - April 19

You are a delightfully flexible person at times, and the planetary energy at play makes this one of those times! To emphasize this quality, consider paying special attention to stretching out your hips and legs. When you feel strong physically, your true nature shines through. Cut back on the caffeine intake - regularly substitute peppermint or chamomile tea to strengthen your nervous system.

TAURUS April 20 - May 20

The need for perspective is universal, but for you it can feel particularly acute. Throughout your quest for this perspective, remember that there is no substitute for regular exercise. The circulation of fresh blood throughout the body affects your skin quality. The skin also depends on lots of fresh water and a diet that provides plenty of Vitamin C. When you take care of your skin you feel better about yourself - and this is something that can entirely change your perspective!

★★ GEMINI May 21 - June 20

You may feel like friendship is the most important thing in life, and if this is true, you must be very careful about who your friends are. Communication will be greatly enhanced by keeping your thoughts to yourself until you are ready to voice them. Try thinking through your relationship issues while you lift weights or exercise and focus on what you really want to say to someone while doing so. The truth will find its way to the surface.

CANCER June 21 - July 22

Your concern for others brings you closer and closer to the feeling that you need the same kind of concern for yourself. Maybe it will mean getting hurt a few times before you learn that setting boundaries is useful for you. Start paying attention to your boundaries through following a more organized health regimen. Taking care of yourself sends out messages to others that they must take care with you. Also, remember that drinking enough water and other fluids is critical to maintaining healthy blood circulation.

LEO July 23 - August 22

Today's astral energy leaves you feeling alive and open to new things. The best complement to these emotional energies is a diet that's easy to process and stretching your body. Light foods such as soups, salads and fish can be very satisfying for the entire body. Remember to eat slowly to allow for the maximum benefit of a meal. Exercise in the morning is recommended. Drink plenty of water, preferably at room temperature.

VIRGO August 23 - Sept. 22

Balancing the need for emotional security with the drive for independence is an essential part of your life path. This process can be mirrored in how you approach exercise. The security of a daily routine is beneficial and reliable. The drive to do whatever you want, whenever you want can sometimes lead to a gap in progress. If you can't make exercise happen some days, balance that out with lots of water and no coffee.

LIBRA Sept. 23 - Oct. 22

You may feel like you're at the top of your game. The planetary alignment gives you the support you need to express your complex emotions: you find words work well for you when you talk about your feelings. It's not always necessary to talk to someone else, though. Try having a conversation with yourself to sort out your feelings when you are running or doing strength training. It's helpful to clarify your thoughts and feelings while you work out.

SCORPIO Oct. 23 - Nov. 21

Things may feel a bit uneasy today, and you are right to listen to yourself at the cost of seeming indifferent to others. There is no better way to protect yourself than to stay true to what you know is right for you. Giving in to the pressure of the outside world can often lead you to unhappiness. Try to enjoy the security of your own privacy but be careful not to shut yourself in completely. Getting in some soothing yoga is highly recommended.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22 - Dec. 21

Give vourself enough time to get things done today. You may feel pulled in several directions at once, and it will take a lot of emotional energy to balance yourself out before you can begin to get things accomplished. While exercise might be the last thing on your mind, consider that everything you do will benefit from the sharper focus you have once you've given your heart rate a chance to strengthen and pump fresh blood into your system!

A CAPRICORN Dec. 22 - Jan. 19

A new outlook is possible today - things that you do every day may seem somehow different - enjoy this fresh perspective! It's important to be flexible and to listen for the inner voice that tells you when to bend and when to walk away from a situation. You often comply in situations when someone else will benefit - ask yourself what you really need, instead. When it comes to what you eat, it's wise to give your intestinal tract a break from bread and dairy products.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20 - Feb. 18

With today's astral energies at play, you may feel extra sensitive. If you don't know what you think or feel, perhaps you could take some time to yourself and do something relaxing. Take your mind off the job, the kids, the spouse, the boss - and spend some time getting distracted in a healthy way. Definitely exercise, definitely drink a lot of water. The balancing act of separating what you want from what others want will be easier if you give yourself some extra room.

PISCES Feb. 19 - March 20

If you find yourself giving in to other people too much because you feel they depend on you, it's time to give yourself the attention you deserve and stop distracting yourself through filling the needs of others. Ground yourself with deep breathing exercises. Have you been getting regular aerobic exercise? Take it easy if it's been a while, but definitely try to get back into caring for yourself first.

These are not $10 or $20 dollar donations - but payments of six and seven figures from special interest groupscorporations, organizations and multi-millionaires to buy favors and influence. Newsom will be completely beholden to them, our needs and concerns ignored.
