Thank You

“The Chris Aristo State Farm Agency has proudly been serving the Foothills for 12 years offering to our neighbors a personal, local, and friendly insurance experience in which relationship building is our #1 focus.

We don't just work to insure you and your family; we hope to get to actually know you. With us, you can speak to the same people every time you call who know your name and account. People who will remember your name and give you the time you deserve when making decisions about important assets your family is looking to protect. People who understand the variables that come along with living and insuring things in the Foothills and can advise you based off experience and expertise. We live here, raise our family's here, advertise with our money here, volunteer here, and most importantly LOVE IT here.

Why deal with a nameless faceless company where you can't speak to the same person ever, or are forced to chat with a bot, when you can deal with someone local who has your best interests at heart always? Someone just a few blocks away? Someone you may have just ran into at the store or the taco stand? Why not rely on the same friendly voice every time backed by the brand you already know?

Ultimately, we don't aim to be “Good Neighbors” because of the State Farm brand, we aim to be “Good Neighbors” because it is an honor to live and be a member of this community. We are inspired by you all.

Thank you for this honor and we will continue to work to deserve this “Finest” designation and your trust daily.”

Bob Smith TOYOTA

107 YEARS
OF Automotive Integrity AND Community Partnerships 1917- 2024

Bob Smith Toyota has been in La Crescenta 31 years, but their dealership pedigree goes beyond a century. The first dealership opened in San Francisco in 1917 where it thrived until 1934.

"In those days, if you had a franchise you were allowed to set up shop anywhere in the city," said Mike Smith, of Bob Smith Toyota.

They had 12 little shops set up all over San Francisco. They looked like little gas stations but were outlets for car sales.

"You were basically a distributor," Pete Smith, Mike's son, added.

"So you couldn't buy a Chevrolet unless you bought it from Smith Anderson," Mike said. Smith Anderson was the name of the dealership at that time.

Back then, the motor vehicle was not commonplace, but the Smith patriarch had a vision of not only what people wanted but what they would also want in the future.

"I am not sure where [grandfather's] education ended, but he was smart enough to think the car business had a future," Mike said.

Throughout the century the Smith family has had dealerships that sold a variety of cars in a variety of locations. Eventually Mike's father bought a location in Glendale. This family business then expanded to Hollywood and broadened its services to include leasing.

"There were really two big companies in leasing ... My dad had a lot of friends who would buy Dodges and would do in-house financing, so they didn't have to pay too big a down payment. Then two or three years later they would turn in their car and get another car," Mike said.

The Smith family really does have cars in their blood. The Chevrolet dealership was in business 17 years, Dodge 29 years, VW/Porsche/Audi 30 years, Toyota going strong at 31 and the BMW dealership in Calabasas has been going strong for 50 years.

Aside from Mike's sister, who lives in northern California and has been in education most of her life, most of four generations of Smiths have been in the business of selling, servicing and leasing cars.

"Automotive blood has spread throughout the family pretty good," Mike said.

Glendale Community College: Connect to Tomorrow

Earning a college degree may be the single most important decision when planning one's career path. For 97 years, Glendale Community College has connected students with their dreams for tomorrow. It's a future filled with promise minus the burden of massive debt.

Why pay full cost for the first two years of general education when the "GCC Promise Plus" provides two years of tuition-free education? First-time, full-time students will dramatically reduce the cost of their college education without sacrificing quality. In addition, it's more than a promise, it's a plan, built around support services to help students reach their goals.

If the four-year college track is not for you, consider GCC's hands-on learning opportunities offered through its career education programs. Solid, high paying jobs can be obtained in months, not years, at a fraction of the cost of private colleges.

If you have a dream, GCC has the opportunities and support to make it a reality. Start planning today and go through GCC to live your best tomorrow.

We're Back!

It's been a long five years (yup, five years) since the last issue of The Finest.

As I'm sure you can figure out, the reason why it's been five years since CV Weekly presented The Finest centers on COVID. During the pandemic, many businesses shuttered – some temporarily, some permanently. So we bided our time waiting for the pandemic to be over and for life to “get back to normal.” (Of course, let's face it: in many ways there is a new “normal.”)

So it is with a great sense of pride that CV Weekly presents The Finest.

Some new readers may be wondering what, exactly, is The Finest. The Finest is an opportunity for our readers to brag about what they feel are The Best, The Greatest, The Finest in a variety of businesses – auto dealers, restaurants, pharmacies, bakeries, for example. When a business goes beyond the ordinary and ventures into the extraordinary ... well, we wanted to give our readers the chance to boast about that. The Finest gives a voice to our readers so they can spread the good news of those they feel are the very best at what they do.

It's interesting that many of our businesses feel the Crescenta Valley Weekly has a hand in these selections. Au contraire! Our readers are the ones who let us know who are the best. This is done by filling out a ballot (found for multiple weeks online and in the paper) and sending it in to us. I hire a couple of people to help tabulate the thousands of votes that come in then present the results in this paper and, more importantly, in The Finest magazine.

The Finest magazine has a shelf life of one year. So while you may feel great today you might need a cardiologist in the future. Where do you go? Well, check out who readers just like you voted as the finest cardiologist (it's Dr. Eric Lee, FYI).

Once the tabulation was complete, our sales crew went to the winners to let them know that they were selected above all the others as The Finest in their category. Many of the winners wanted to share their appreciation with our readers and you'll find their notes in this magazine along with a full listing of all the winners.

I must admit that, though it might be tempting, no one at CV Weekly casts a ballot; the results you find on these pages are 100% reflective of those who took the time to submit a ballot. So read each page well – these are the people, businesses and services that your friends and neighbors think you should give a try.

So thank you to those who took the time to review the ballot and make their selections. Though it's been a long time coming, we're pleased to be back and let you know who has been chosen as The Finest.
